Voicing in wilderness

The country has hosted in the past a galaxy of statesmen, philosophers, orators, authors, academics, monks and also luminaries remembered for their lyrically expressed words of wisdom in many languages with or without script. Whatever is presently available in libraries of institutions and personal possessions of the country's literati may be a small part of their contributions spanning several centuries. Although the times they lived is vastly different from our days on many counts, particularly emphasis on the principle of simple living and high thinking, the message of tolerance in a society marked by wide diversity is more relevant than at anytime in the past, considering the present scenario of public speakers with mass following sowing seeds of hatred and violence, purposefully dividing the people at large from the angles of their faiths, beliefs, tongues, ethnicity, regions and economic factors. Their voices, louder as they are tending to drown the voice of good samaritans, have left aam janata dumb-founded.

The genre of leaders, supported by the coterie of their mass following, not only take refuge under the land's Constitution, highlighting only the provisions that suit their cause but also quote lines attributed to the land's past social reformers, prompting one to liken their piety to the idiom Devil quoting the scripture.

The goings on with vote-seekers dominating the scene are accepted as inevitable by the people with a sense of helplessness, but yet there appears to be a silver line amidst dark clouds as it were, considering a news that a group of writers have stepped in with an appeal for sanity, never mind the matter appearing only on an inside page of a widely-read daily. According to the news, over 200 writers across the country have issued a signed appeal saying, "Let us vote against hate politics. Lets us vote for an equal and diverse India." They have written in different languages including Kannada and English, on behalf of Indian Writers' Forum.

The writers have forewarned the people at large to be wary of the flock of vote-seekers hell-bent on dividing the country and hurting aam janata's simple wish of living as full-fledged citizens of free India. It is another matter that the wily vote-seekers continue to rampage and the masses refuse to wake up, leaving the writers with their voice in wilderness.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

The use of social media during elections has increased dramatically in recent years. WhatsApp seems to be the platform of choice for most players this time around. An interesting campaign on WhatApp asks, "Going to sell your vote for 27 paisa?" The math is simple: One year = 365 days; so five years = 1,825 days. If one vote sells for Rs. 500; per day it works out to Rs.500/1,825 or 0.27 paisa. "Think before you accept money for vote," the campaign urges its target audience.

Alarmed, she called her mom, who in turn contacted her grandmother Louise to see. Louise tole that it was a baby bump and drove Leggate to the hospital. She made her wait in the car while she went in to find a midwife. By the time she came back, the teen had given birth in the backseat. She had only noticed the baby bump 45 minutes earlier.

Doctors told her that the baby must have been sitting in her lower back, which apparently is quite common.

HEALTH CAPSULE by Bron Smith

Is it really true that we should drink 8 glasses of water per day?

Health Researchers consider this a popular misconception. Some active people need more than 8 glasses of water daily, and some less active need less. Thirst is still your best guide to your water needs. Make it a priority to stay well hydrated throughout your day.

Plea to run Dharwad-Mysuru Express early to facilitate Chamundi Express passengers

Sir,

Train number 17302 Dharwad-Mysuru Express acts as a convenient daily train to reach Mysuru overnight. The recent augmentation of an additional AC 3 Tier coach to this prestigious train is welcome as the move benefits many regular travellers towards Hubballi-Dharwad.

The existing arrival time of 17302 Dharwad-Mysuru Express at Mysuru Station is only at 7.05 am. Hence for the regular commuters including daily office-goers who arrive at Mysuru by this train are forced to miss Chamundi Express departing towards Bengaluru at 6.45 am.

It should be noted that there are no other daily mail/express trains towards Bengaluru from Mysuru between 6.45 am and 8.20 am, that is for a gap of about two hours from Mysuru. The next available express train to Bengaluru is only at 8.20 am. that is, Malgudi Express. Thus Bengaluru bound passengers do not have any option than waiting for two long hours to connect to another train till 8.20 am.

Thus there is now an urgent need to arrange for early arrival of 17302 Dharwad-Mysuru Express at Mysuru to facilitate onward connection by Chamundi Express departing at 6.45 am from Mysuru.

Siddu's meeting with Mandya

Congress leaders fail to end deadlock

Bengaluru, Apr.8- While Congress-JD(S) leaders in Mysuru put up a united face on Sunday as a show of strength, former Chief Minister and CLP leader Siddharamaiah's meeting with dissident Congress leaders from Mandya at the State capital yesterday failed to end the deadlock.

With several Congress leaders from Mandya refusing to campaign for coalition candidate Nikhil Kumaraswamy, son of CM H.D. Kumaraswamy, Siddharamaiah had convened a meeting of Mandya Congress leaders on Sunday, in a bid to resolve the row. But the meeting was inconclusive with several Congress leaders not agreeing to campaign for JD(S) candidate Nikhil, who is contesting as the coalition candidate.

Congress leaders and workers openly campaigning for independent candidate and actress Sumalatha Ambarish, wife of late actor-turned-politician Ambarish, had tasked CLP leader Siddharamaiah of making the party leaders fall in line. But as the 'rebel' Congress leaders, who stuck to their stand, the meeting remained inconclusive.

Despite the best efforts of top Congress leaders, the rebels were unrelenting, which left Siddharamaiah disappointed, it is learnt.

Former MLAs Cheluvarayaswamy, Ramesh Babu Bandisiddegowda, P.M. Narendraswamy and other Congress leaders from Mandya, KPCC President Dinesh Gundu Rao, Minister Zameer Ahmed Khan and other top Congress leaders attended the meeting. As the talks failed, Siddharamaiah is said to have told the 'rebel' leaders that he would talk to JD(S) supremo H.D. Deve Gowda and CM H.D. Kumaraswamy to sort out issues and convene another meeting on Monday night, which would be a decisive one.

'Siddharamaiah's meeting with Mandya Cong. leaders will have no impact'

Sumalatha Ambarish campaigns at Maddur

Mandya, Apr.8 (Nagaiah&SR)- Mandya Lok Sabha Constituency Independent candidate Sumalatha Ambarish said that the meeting which was held between Co-ordination Committee Chairman Siddharamaiah and Congress leaders of Mandya district at Bengaluru yesterday will have no impact on poll results.

Speaking to reporters amidst her brisk campaigning at Yadaganahalli, Kadukottanahalli and other villages of Maddur taluk yesterday, she said that her late husband, actor-turned-politician Ambarish was associated with Congress for more than 23 years and added that the Congress leaders of the region are worried about their future and identity.

She said that apart from BJP, a majority of Congress leaders and JD(S) are also backing her in this election. "Some Congress leaders of various ranks are supporting me after tendering resignation to their posts. Interestingly, I have been receiving overwhelming response and rousing welcome from the voters wherever I canvass. I hope that Congress will support me," she added.

During her campaigning at K. Honnalagere village at Maddur taluk, she urged voters to give her an opportunity to serve and represent them in the Parliament by electing her with a huge margin, as this election is a matter of prestige and self-respect for the people of Mandya. Sumalatha also garlanded the bust of Ambarish installed by his fans at D. Hosur village. Voters welcomed Sumalatha by showering flower petals at various villages.

While canvassing at Yadaganahalli village, Sumalatha said that the people of Mandya will be scripting history in the electoral politics by electing an independent candidate in this poll.

During Sumalatha's electioneering at Kadukottanahalli, one of the supporters raised slogan "Independent candidate from Mandya, Sumalatha Ambarish, has already won the Lok Sabha elections."

Ambarish's son Abhishek, who was also accompanying his mother during campaigning, appealed voters to cast their votes for her mother. Fans welcomed Abhishek with "D Boss" slogans at Kadukottanahalli village.

Mandya LS candidates continue campaign today

Sumalatha Ambarish continued her campaign at various villages of Nagamangala segment this morning. She conducted poll campaigning in more than 18 villages including Cheenya, Brahmadevarahalli, Nagamangala and Devalapura. They alleged that the then Tahsildar Chigari had promised to set up the Booth during the last Lok Sabha polls, but he failed to keep the promise.

Nikhil Kumaraswamy unhappy about false news on social media

Mandya coalition candidate Nikhil Kumaraswamy spotted one of his fans conducting campaign wearing Nikhil mask at Bharathinagar in Maddur taluk yesterday.

Bharathinagar, Apr.8 (Satish&SR)- Coming down heavily on his political opponents for spreading false news about him and his family members through social networking sites, Mandya Lok Sabha coalition candidate Nikhil Kumaraswamy appealed voters not to give credence to such fake news and elect him to Parliament for development of Mandya.

Addressing party activists at Bharathinagar, he said that his grandfather and former Prime Minister H.D. Deve Gowda, father H.D. Kumaraswamy and all his family members are striving hard for development of Mandya district without caring their age and health and JD(S) is committed for welfare of farmers.

Beechanakuppe villagers drop poll boycott protest

Villagers of Beechanakuppe removing the poll boycott posters and banners in their village in Srirangapatna taluk yesterday.

Srirangapatna, Apr.8 (Vinay Karepura&SR)- Following assurance given by the Assistant Election Officer to arrange vehicle facility for disabled, aged and other helpless people to cast their votes during this LS Polls, villagers of Beechanakuppe of the taluk dropped their poll boycott protest.

It may be recalled here that hundreds of villagers staged protest threatening to boycott the Lok Sabha polls last Friday urging the Taluk Administration to set up a Polling Booth in their village besides ensuring drinking water, toilet and other basic facilities.

Following this protest, a team of officials led by Assistant Election Officer Krishnam Raju and Tahsildar Naga Prashanth visited the village yesterday and heard the grievances from the residents.

Madhu, a resident of the village, alleged that the villagers had to walk 3.5 kilometers to nearest Polling Booth set up at Hosa Unduvadi village during every election to exercise their franchise. Villagers also have to walk to Unduvadi to fetch water as the water tank is also located in that village. Villagers have clashed with Unduvadi villagers over this issue several times. He accused the Taluk Administration has turned blind eye to look into their demands.

He urged the officials to set up a separate Polling Booth as aged, women and physically challenged are finding it difficult to cast their votes. He also alleged many residents failed to vote during the last election as they could not walk to exercise their rights.

Responding to their demands, Krishnam Raju said that he is unable to take steps to open new Polling Booth at this juncture. However, he assured to provide vehicle facility for aged and specially abled to cast their votes at the nearest Polling Booth.

He said that he would have considered setting up of new Booth if they had approached him before the announcement of Poll Code of Conduct and urged them to drop their protest.

Bowing to the officers' request, villagers dropped their protest and removed poll boycott posters and banners in the village.

Leadership Lessons FOR DAILY LIVING

By Dr. R. Balasubramaniam

Leading Sustainability...

Though it is fashionable nowadays to talk about 'Sustainable Living' only a few of us actually convert our talk into walk. We spend endless hours in conferences and debates but do very little at the individual level to address concerns affecting our unsustainable ways of living.

Every few years, the UN hosts summits on preserving the environment and global leaders come together to talk and plan on how to go about making human life on this planet earth sustainable. While a lot of noise is usually made, it is only a small minority which gets down to actually doing something about it.

I have had the privilege of meeting people who neither carry a banner about their personal efforts nor hesitate to live and practice what they preach. They express their leadership in their own quiet ways and all of them are role models for the rest of us struggling to live upto our ideal of leading sustainable lives.

I have known Ramaiah (name changed to ensure privacy) for several years now and he has been a staunch believer in himself and his way of sustainable living. Whether it is his own house with water being fully recycled or minimal waste being generated or capturing rainwater and storing it — he has first done it and then is now a committed evangelist. He travels around the country helping people set up solar power systems, rain water harvesting structures, fuel efficient stoves and Watsan (Water and Sanitation) units.

Apart from SVYM, he has worked with several organisations across the country. And he has been doing all this for free. From teaching students to take this message forward, he has been quietly leading change — by becoming the change that he wants to see. His belief in himself and his cause is so strong that he never hesitates to call a spade a spade. I have witnessed his confronting the host in marriages and public functions deploring their use of plastic or their guests wasting the food served to them. His views are simple and clear. People need to be exposed and shown how their small actions will affect the environment in a large and invisible ways. And like Hillel, the famous Jewish Rabbi mentions, 'if the time is not now, then when? And if it is not me, then who else?'

Ramaiah's conviction in the cause, his unhesitating desire to be the change and his courage in reminding people around him of their individual responsibility has left me impressed and inspired.

Another person who in his own quiet way taught me a lifestyle lesson is Anil Venkatesh (name changed) who till recently was associated with SVYM. One day, he was trying to explain to me the nuances of social media and how the same could be constructively utilised. As he stood up to leave, the pyjama (loose trouser like Indian dress) that he was wearing got caught in a nail in the chair and tore. My immediate reaction was that he needed to change this torn old garment and buy himself a new one. Without much ado and with simplicity and spontaneity, Anil was categorical that the pyjama was not yet unusable. He was clear in the fact that he could have it stitched, and it would be as good as new.

Affordability or the age of the pyjama was not his concern —what mattered to him was its utility. In his own simple way, he was doing what he could do best. Live a lifestyle that took little and tried to conserve as much as one could do.

Another person in the same league is Jagan Seshadri (name changed). He is a retired scientist and walks the sustainability talk in his own unique way. He carries a stainless-steel glass, plate and spoon in his cloth bag whenever he attends events where food or snacks are served. He insists that food be served to him in his own plate and politely refuses to use either the paper or plastic plate and cutlery in which food and water is served. He makes it a point to explain to people around him how re-usable utensils save the environment and the need for each one to live eco-friendliness. He is not only able to live his ideals but also reminds those around how small changes can result in huge consequences for all of us.

Leading oneself and making these difficult but necessary choices is not easy indeed. For many of us driven by the pressure of time, status, visibility and travel; leaving a larger than necessary carbon footprint is becoming the only way to live. We seldom realise that making small changes to our lives — whether it is vegetarianism or having a minimal set of clothes or reducing all unnecessary travel, the use of plastics; all this can contribute in significant ways in reducing environmental degradation. What we need is the discipline, determination and the desire to make a difference. And this is what leading sustainability is all about. It calls for the courage to live one's convictions, be willing to be socially awkward, and suffer willingly the accompanying discomfort and inconvenience. And isn't this what leadership is all about?

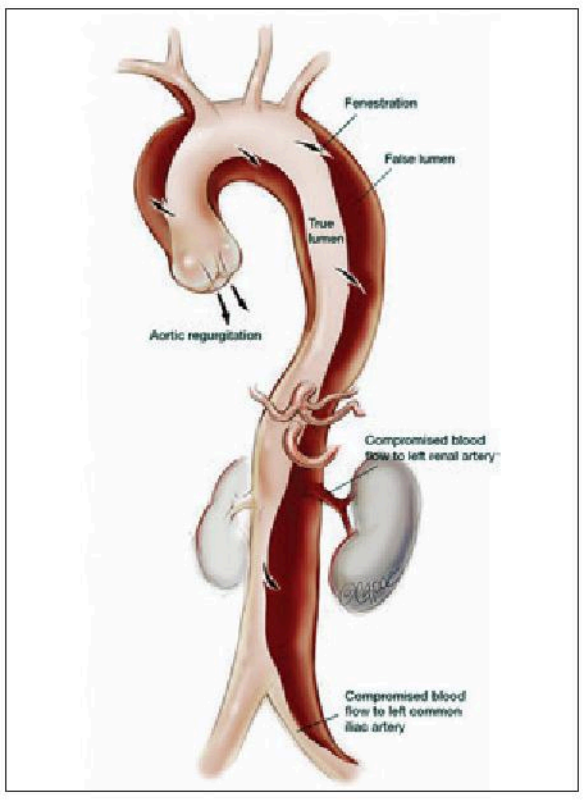
60-year-old man undergoes innovative surgery at Narayana Hospital

Mysuru, Apr. 8 (KS)- A 60-year-old man with type A aortic dissection or tear in the aorta (the largest artery in the body) got a new lease of life through an innovative surgery performed by the doctors at Narayana Multispecialty Hospital, Mysuru.

The patient, Bhaskar Shetty, was treated with immediate surgery replacement of the aortic root with the valve, ascending aorta and aortic arch.

A hotelier, Bhaskar had no health issues. However, a few days ago, he started developing shortness of breath and had a few black outs (syncope). As he was experiencing difficulties continuously for two days, his daughter rushed him to the hospital. After a comprehensive evaluation including CT scan of the chest it was identified that Bhaskar had aortic dissection. Aortic dissection is rare but not uncommon in people with certain risk factors occurs when the layers of the aorta pull apart, trapping blood between them. This weakens the aorta and may cause it to rupture. Typically, it is seen in men between 60-80 years old who have a history of heart disease or high blood pressure.

But Bhaskar's case was unusual as he did not have any typical risk factors. The search of quality and improved medical care brought him to Narayana Multispecialty Hospital Heart Valve Clinic.



After thorough evaluation, the doctors suggested the repair of aortic dissection under deep hypothermic circulatory arrest. The surgery lasted for six hours and Bhaskar Shetty is fast recovering from the fatal disease.

Speaking about the case, Dr. M.N. Ravi, Chief Heart Surgeon and Director of Heart Valve Clinic said, "Type A aortic dissection is the most dangerous type of dissection associated with mortality and morbidities like stroke. In Bhaskar Shetty's case, not only the aorta, even the arch was dissected ruling out the conventional mode of treatment. We cannulated a large artery in the chest called axillary artery to maintain blood supply to the brain. We induced deep hypothermic circulatory arrest, wherein the body is made to cool down to a very cold temperature of 18 degree Celsius and performed the aortic dissection repair. A conduit housing an artificial valve was used to replace the aortic root, ascending aorta and partial aortic arch. We are glad that the patient's body responded to the whole process and he is recovering fast."

Speaking about his experience, Bhaskar Shetty said, "When I was diagnosed with this fatal disease, me and my family were shattered as I never had any major health issues till date. However Dr. Ravi and his team were supportive and helped us sail through the situation."

By K.B. Ganapathy

Hark! Modi comes to Mysuru

Will Modi redeem the pledge Nehru promised we the people of India in 1947?

Prime Minister Narendra Modi is visiting our city Mysuru tomorrow as part of his roller-coaster Parliamentary election campaign and will address the citizens of this royal and cultural city of Karnataka at the same venue where he addressed us in 2014 for the same reason — Parliamentary Election. By the time he came here, Modi had already become the toast of the country, a hero all set to defeat the dynasty that had held the Government of the country in its vice-like grip for over 60 years successively and to break the politics of entitlement to empowerment of Gandhi Dynasty.

Consider the events following the 2002 Godhra riots, where as a Gujarat CM of one-and-half-year-old, he was demonised and held responsible for not controlling the communal riots by the UPA. It looked that the 1984 Sikh Massacre following Indira Gandhi's assassination under the very nose of the Congress Government was forgotten. Let it be.

A few months before Modi came to Mysuru in 2014, I had walked into a book shop at Bengaluru and I purchased a small coffee-table book [See pic.] titled 'Moditva- The Idea Behind The Man.' It was a small book of about 55 pages, but my curiosity was roused looking at the persons who wrote the foreword for the book — Kiran Bedi, now the Governor of Pondicherry, Jaswant Singh, former Finance Minister in Vajpayee Government, now ignored by the party and Dr. Subramanian Swamy.

In a sense, the book was intended to tell us what manner of a man this 2014 prospective Prime Minister of India was.

In brief, Kiran Bedi writes, "The country is at crossroads, if by May 2014 we take the right direction, the nation will speed towards all round development. From problems, bottlenecks to solutions and openings.

"I personally believe this is so close and achievable provided Narendra Modi and his party reaches the Indian Parliament with a clear mandate, to lead and deliver!"

And then, Jaswant Singh in his foreword appears to be little superstitious as if believing in numerology. He writes: "2014 will see many elections in Asia so also in India. In our culture, this number-14-carries mystical significance. In the process of Samudra Manthan, which stands for churning of the oceans 14 'ratna' had come to the surface. Bhagwan Sri Ram also returned to Ayodhya after an exile of 14 years. No doubt, therefore, 2014 will be that year of change which the country has been yearning for since long."

I guess his prediction has come true because Narendra Modi did become the PM in 2014.

The third foreword is from our maverick, big-mouth intellectual with the rare courage of conviction and a strong believer in Hindutva Dr. Subramanian Swamy saying that the book 'Moditva' was intended to highlight the vision of the Prime Minister to be. He explains about four dimensions of 'Moditva' according to him.

"1. To rise in life overcoming all obstacles of life including family poverty and caste without complaining. 2. No matter how high you rise your commitment to simplicity and probity in life remains firm and unchanging. 3. Be forever focussed on your goals and the strategy to achieving these. 4. No matter how strong are your enemies and no matter the calumny heaped on you by your detractors, you remain of even temper in treating success and failure and profit and loss with your mind fixed on achieving your goal.

"Narendra Modi has these qualities of character and that is why he has risen from very humble family circumstances to be the next Prime Minister of India. His track record in Gujarat's economic development inspires us to believe that India will be flourishing global power by 2020."

Indeed, India has already become a flourishing global power where it has a unique and important place among the comity of nations and this has been achieved in just five years of Modi's Prime Ministership. In contrast, compare the 10 years of Congress rule under UPA, perish the thought. India simply got lucky in 2014 astrologically as explained by Jaswant Singh in his foreword, I guess.

Another interesting aspect of the book, rather curiously published by one Siddharth Mazumdar, Founder-Member, Citizens For Accountable Governance, is the contents which in 14 chapters speak of Modi's idea of governance for India with 14 slogans. Some of the slogans are familiar to our readers. But let me mention these 14 slogans mentioned in the book.

The 14 slogans are: 1. Secularism means India first, 2. Minimum government, maximum governance, 3. Government has no business to be in business, 4. Co-operative, not coercive federalism for a strong republic, 5. Development politics over votebank politics, 6. Aatma gaanv ki, suvidha sheher ki, 7. Tourism unites, terrorism divides, 8. Per drop more crop, 9. Farm to fiber, fiber to factory, factory to fashion, fashion to foreign, 10. From a nation of snake charmers to mouse charmers, 11. Take the university outside the campus, 12. Pehle sauchalaye, phir devalaya, 13. Economy with mass production by the masses and 14. People public private partnership (4P).

To play the devil's advocate, I would say only administrative reform, that was missing was about demonetisation. But then it is understandable because it has to be kept a secret, under wraps, to succeed. Personally speaking, demonetisation was a step that was needed at least 10 years back in 2004 because Indian economy was running on two parallel lines, one of white money, another of black money. If this had continued for long at that speed, the economy itself would have collapsed. Thank God, despite some minor failure in its implementation (may be due to lack of co-operation from the bureaucracy which was indebted to the earlier UPA dispensation), the demonetisation has certainly cleansed our contaminated economy to a great extent. As a businessman myself, I say this with my own authority and experience. Thank you Modi. My country is more important to me than black money. As Dr. Babasaheb Ambedkar says, "If India loses, who wins?"

Tomorrow Modi is going to address us and now that he has done his ground work and laid the foundation during the past five years, I am sure, in the next five years if he is given the opportunity, he will build a grand super-structure of national pride and a flourishing economy.

If our people could give more than 60 years to one dynasty that ruled us like an oligarchy and got nothing worthwhile when compared to the prosperity of other countries of the world, why not give another five years to Narendra Modi to complete the task he started in 2014 to deliver the country from the morass to which it has fallen and redeem the pledge given to them by the first Prime Minster Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru in his famous Tryst with Destiny speech made at the stroke of midnight, 15th August, 1947?

Puttaraju-Madegowda audio clip adds to Mandya poll drama

Mandya, Apr. 8 (Nagaiah& BCT)- Amidst the political heat and dust in Mandya that is witnessing high-profile battle between coalition candidate Nikhil Kumaraswamy and Independent candidate Sumalatha Ambarish, a controversial audio clip has gone viral.

Madegowda

Puttaraju

The clip contains a conversation where veteran Congress leader and Gandhian G. Madegowda is seeking money from JD(S) Minister C.S. Puttaraju for the election expenses of Nikhil. The clip has led to a political storm.

The one-minute-55-second clip has been widely shared and aired on social and electronic media and is said to have been recorded a couple of days ago. In the clip, Madegowda, a former Congress MP, allegedly asks Puttaraju, who represents Melukote Assembly segment in Mandya, to hand over the money to his son Madhu Madegowda, a former MLC. Madegowda is allegedly heard saying his supporters in Maddur taluk were demanding money and that he doesn't have any money of his own to give them.

"As you know, Minister D.C. Thammanna (JD-S leader) has already been distributing money to his supporters. We have to give money to our supporters. My son will start his campaign and you have to talk to the CM and arrange the money," Madegowda allegedly tells Puttaraju. A voice, purportedly that of Puttaraju, promises Madegowda that the money would be supplied.

'NOTHING WRONG'

Reacting to the clip, Madegowda admitted that he had asked the Minister for money and that there was nothing wrong with the demand. He said the money was for poll expenses and he had asked the Minister for it since he doesn't have money to spend.

"Since Nikhil is a coalition candidate, it is the responsibility of JD(S) leaders to provide us the money to bear poll-related expenses," Madegowda said. "What is wrong in asking a JD(S) Minister for money? Who can contest polls without spending money? I'm not bothered if the audio clip brings me a bad name as I have done nothing wrong."

He said no one could contest elections without spending money, including PM Modi. "The boys ask me for money to arrange coffee, breakfast and liquor. It is common nowadays, and so I asked for the money," he said.

CM DISMISSES

Meanwhile, CM Kumaraswamy maintained that there was nothing wrong in Gowda seeking money. Addressing a press conference in Udupi, he pointed out that the Election Commission of India itself allows candidates to spend Rs. 70 lakh for election purposes in a Parliamentary Constituency.

He alleged that reporters of a private TV channel had posed as Congress workers to conduct this "sting operation". "They have unnecessarily brought down the reputation of a senior person such as Madegowda. Is this news? Nothing will come out of it," he said.

Even C.S. Puttaraju admitted that Madegowda has asked him for money. "This is not the money to bribe the people but the money is a part of Nikhil's electioneering expenses. That is why I agreed to arrange the money," he said.

CM's closed-door meeting

Srirangapatna, Apr. 8 (Nagaiah &DM)- In order to ensure the victory of his son Nikhil Kumaraswamy, who is contesting as the coalition candidate from Mandya LS Constituency, with actress Sumalatha Ambarish contesting as an independent candidate and launching an aggressive campaign, Chief Minister H.D. Kumaraswamy is said to have held a closed door meeting with Mandya JD(S) legislators and leaders at a private hotel in KRS in the taluk late last night.

The CM discussed strategies to be adopted from now on to ensure the victory of his son Nikhil, which is crucial for him.

The CM is also said to have deliberated on reworking the strategy, if need be, to ensure that JD(S) candidate gets lead in all the eight Assembly segments of the Constituency.

The meeting was attended by all Legislators from Mandya, barring Malavalli MLA Dr. K. Annadani, it is learnt.

Anil Ambani case: Two sacked Apex Court officials held

New Delhi, Apr. 8- Delhi Police's Crime Branch has arrested two sacked Supreme Court (SC) officials in connection with the case of alleged change of an order which directed Reliance Communications Chairman Anil Ambani to personally appear in a contempt of court case.

The arrested men have been identified as Tapan Kumar Chakraborty and Manav Sharma, a senior officer said. They are being interrogated in custody and will be produced in court for remand, an officer said.

Both Manav Sharma and Tapan Kumar Chakraborty were sacked by Chief Justice of India Ranjan Gogoi following a complaint that they tampered with an order of the court directing personal presence of Anil Ambani.

A senior Police Officer had registered an FIR after they received a complaint from the Administration Department of the SC. "During the investigation, we found some concrete evidence against them and they could not provide a satisfactory answer to the investigators," the officer said.

The incident, which led to the development, dates to Jan. 7 when a Bench of Justices R.F. Nariman and Vineet Sharan directed Anil Ambani's personal presence on the contempt plea by Swedish telecom group Ericsson.

However, the order uploaded on the court's official website said "personal appearance of the alleged contemnor(s) is dispensed with", indicating that Ambani would not have to appear in court on the next day of the hearing.

This was subsequently "revised" and a new document was uploaded. It said, "Personal appearance of the alleged contemnor(s) is not dispensed with". The digital signature on the order shows it was uploaded on Jan. 9. Sources said Ericsson counsel had taken up the issue with the court following which the employees were suspended and later sacked.

SC directs EC to increase random checking of VVPAT slips

New Delhi, Apr.8- The Supreme Court (SC) this morning directed the Election Commission (EC) to increase random checking of VVPAT slips from one booth per Assembly segment to five in Lok Sabha polls for better voter confidence and credibility of electoral process.

A bench headed by Chief Justice Ranjan Gogoi however did not agree to the request of 21 Opposition parties' leaders that 50 per cent VVPAT slips of EVMs be matched, on the ground that it will require huge manpower and not be feasible in view of infrastructural difficulties.

Modi is the first VVIP to arrive in Mysuru to canvass for BJP candidates in the poll-bound Mysuru-Kodagu and Chamarajanagar LS Constituencies and the city Police have made elaborate security arrangements. Apart from Police and paramilitary deployment at key locations, security drills are being conducted to ensure that the PM's movement in Mysuru and his public address are incident-free.

Narendra Modi travels in Boeing 747-400 (Air India One), though not all-that state-of-the-art, but is quite a flying fortress. The aircraft is operated as VIP flight by the Indian Air Force (IAF) and is constantly monitored by IAF from Palam Airport in New Delhi. The Special Protection Group (SPG), responsible for PM's security, will cordon off the Mysore Airport hours before the plane will arrive and only VIP vehicles will be allowed inside after a thorough screening. Public vehicles will not be allowed.

The PM's cavalcade will be accompanied by high-security armoured vehicles driven and monitored by SPG commandos and will form the core security zone. The security provided by the city Police will form the outer layer of the security zone.

SECURITY DRILL

This morning, over 50 Policemen, part of Anti-Sabotage Team, drawn from various districts, conducted a security drill at the Maharaja's College Grounds. Apart from checking the outer venue, the team checked the stage and the rest rooms set up behind the stage. A special Police team also conducted an escort rehearsal from Mysore Airport till the Maharaja's College Grounds.

Modi will address the rally from stage that has been set up at a height of 12 feet with a width of 30X50 feet. The stage is expected to complete before today evening and the premises will be out of bounds till people start arriving to the rally tomorrow. There will be 12 entry points and Modi will enter the stage through a special entrance once he alights from his armoured BMW.

SPG INSPECTION

Speaking to Star of Mysore, City Police Commissioner K.T. Balakrishna said that the PM will arrive at 4.40 pm and will leave the city by 6 pm after addressing the rally. There will be no other traffic from Mandakalli to Maharaja's College Grounds when the PM's cavalcade is moving. The SPG commandos have already inspected the Airport, the route and the rally venue. He said that all the security measures have been planned and executed as directed by the SPG.

The specially set up stage and the German tent shelter where the audience will be seated have been sanitised for any possible threat. A special meeting was held by the city Police to chalk out the security plan which was attended by Inspector General of Police (Southern Range) Umesh Kumar, City Police Commissioner K.T. Balakrishna, Deputy Commissioner of Police (Law and Order) M. Muthuraj and Superintendent of Police Amit Singh.

Seven SP-rank Officers, 11 ACPs, more than 50 Inspectors, 12 City Armed Reserve Platoons, District Armed Reserve Police, Mounted Police personnel, Chamundi Patrol Vehicles will be deployed all along the PM's cavalcade route. In all, over 1,500 Policemen and officers will be a part of the security apparatus.

Dog Squad and Bomb Disposal Units have been conducting inspection of the venue four times a day and instructions have been given to all street vendors near Maharaja's College Grounds to shift their business elsewhere for security reasons.

At the rally venue, metal detectors will be installed at the entry points to screen the visitors. Directions have been given to the Police to set up temporary parking lot at Scouts and Guides Grounds and surrounding areas.

Enhancing Soil Chi

In the science of Feng Shui, Yang energy is associated with the Sun and vibrant colours like reds, oranges and yellows. In a home, areas like the front yard, lobby and garden space are said to have Yang energy.

The opposite of Yang energy is Yin which is the passive and negative energy which opposes Yang. Yin energy corresponds to the moon and cooler colours like blues and greens and most often dark sectors, toilets and unused spaces are said to have Yin energy.

Creating a balance between the energies is the key to balancing a space and harmonising it. When the energies are balanced, one can actually sense it and feel it. Some homes feel good the minute you walk in, creating a relaxed, happier and harmonious feel.

By adapting Feng Shui, an ancient metaphysical system based on the Chinese Five Element theory, one can use it to create harmony in the place of dwelling. Ancient Asian Palaces and many corporate headquarters share a guiding principle for orientation, design, decor and layout of their buildings based on Feng Shui, the Chinese art of placement.

When the science of Vastu or Feng Shui is adapted, its not just the layout and design but one can even assess the soil quality and its intrinsic benefits. Often some buildings fail, few structurally due to failure of foundation and many due to absence of positive energies and bad quality of soil.

Investigating the quality of the soil and then deciding on the foundation of the building is an essential part of Feng Shui and Vastu analysis.

Hence, the science speaks of soil evaluation before any construction begins on a property as this also helps in designing the building and the foundation in accordance with the type of soil existing in the property.

The flora and fauna of a space gives an insight on the quality of the energy existing in the piece of property. Looking at the plants, greenery, a fair amount of information can be retrieved and adjustments in accordance with the observations can be made. The first step is to assess the garden or yard. A sunny area with lots of colourful plants will be Yang dominate. A yin area will be shaded and have stagnant water, and cool coloured plants.

Once the required corrections, layout and design are in place, the energy of the garden can also be enhanced and balanced to support the building and the occupants.

Sound energy in garden is also beneficial, it could be Wind Chimes, bells or bamboo flutes are all acceptable instruments to use.

Make sure they produce a sharp melodious sound versus a clang. Wind Chimes and flutes need to be placed in a sheltered part of the garden.

The science of metaphysics helps us to live in harmony with nature, creates a rhythm and balance in the building to ensure a qualitatively better life and makes the occupants live in synchronicity with the environment and the building.

Kolkata crush Rajasthan by 8 wickets

Dethrone CSK, climb to the top of points table

KKR openers Chris Lynn and Sunil Narine gave the visitors a flying start that helped KKR defeated Rajasthan Royals at Sawai Mansingh Stadium in Jaipur yesterday. Picture right: DC Skipper Shreyas Iyer in action against RCB at M. Chinnaswamy Stadium in Bengaluru last evening.

Jaipur, Apr.8- Kolkata Knight Riders (KKR) defeated Rajasthan Royals (RR) by 8 wickets at Sawai Mansingh Stadium in Jaipur yesterday.

Chasing 140 runs, KKR openers Chris Lynn and Sunil Narine gave the visitors a flying start as the duo galloped 52 runs in only 4.1 overs. Sunil Narine was at his best as he scored a quick-fire 47 off just 25 balls at a strike rate of 188. His innings included 6 fours and 3 sixes. Narine and Lynn clobbered boundaries around the park at will as they added 91 runs for the 1st wicket in 8.3 overs.

Narine was dismissed by Shreyas Gopal. On the other hand, Lynn brought up his 7th IPL half-century before he was dismissed for 50 off 32 balls. His innings also included 6 fours and 3 sixes. Gopal dismissed Lynn who was caught at 1st slip by Steve Smith.

By the time Lynn was dismissed, KKR were in touching distance from a fabulous win. Robin Uthappa scored 26 off 16 (1 four, 2 sixes) to ensure KKR don't lose further wickets.

With this win, KKR climbed to the top of the points table, dethroning Chennai Super Kings (CSK) with a superior net run rate.

Earlier, RR scored 139/3 in 20 overs courtesy a fluent 73 not out by Steve Smith.

DC beat RCB

Chasing 150 for victory in their IPL 2019 match against Royal Challengers Bangalore (RCB) at M. Chinnaswamy Stadium, Delhi Capitals rode on skipper Shreyas Iyer's 50-ball 67 to get to victory with 7 balls to spare.

Winning the toss, DC skipper Shreyas Iyer opted to bowl first. Scoring looked difficult for the RCB batsmen throughout, as the away team kept picking regular wickets.

Virat Kohli, in an unusual display, got most of his runs in singles, as he kept losing partners on the other end. Moeen Ali (32) gave some impetus to the RCB innings. Kohli almost came to life after Moeen Ali's onslaught, hitting two consecutive sixes.

However, devastatingly for the home crowd, Kohli fell for 41. Kagiso Rabada was the star of the show, devastating RCB with three wickets in the 18th over.

Despite Shikhar Dhawan's early wicket in the chase, RCB could not make regular inroads as Prithvi Shaw and Shreyas Iyer consolidated the innings. There was a rush of wickets towards the end, but it was too little too late as the Delhi Capitals lower order held their nerves to take their team to victory.

RCB, now having lost six consecutive matches, are stuck at the bottom of the table with 0 points. DC, now having won three matches in six, are now at fifth position on the table.

PSG Star involved in arguably 'Worst Miss' in history of Football

Eric Maxim Choupo-Moting will be a name etched in the memories of Paris Saint-Germain (PSG) and football fans for a long, long time — for all the wrong reasons. PSG were on the brink of sealing their sixth French Ligue 1 title in seven seasons but what transpired in the match against Strasbourg in the French capital will be hard to forget. Choupo-Moting might have given PSG an early lead but later in the first half, the former Stoke City player somehow succeeded in turning a net-bound Christopher Nkunku shot onto the post while standing on the goal-line. Choupo-Moting's howler will go down as arguably the worst miss of all-time.

Virat Kohli says no excuses left after RCB's sixth straight loss

Bengaluru, Apr.8- Virat Kohli, the Royal Challengers Bangalore skipper, said that he has no more excuses to give after his team slumped to a record-equalling sixth straight defeat in the Indian Premier League on Sunday. Delhi Capitals defeated Royal Challengers Bangalore by four wickets as they chased down the target of 150 with seven balls to spare. Kohli's side, who are yet to win the coveted Indian Premier League title, are rock bottom in the eight-team league and the captain has become increasingly frustrated with his side's performances. "We need to grab those chances, can't give excuses every day. We weren't good on the day again. That's the whole story of RCB this season," Kohli said after the loss in Bengaluru.

RCB now share the dubious record of a team's worst IPL start along with Delhi Capitals (previously Delhi Daredevils), who suffered six losses in a row in 2013.

Three shops on Kalidasa Road display banner on voter awareness

Mysuru, Apr.8 (MK&NNN)- This is the election season and it is the duty of every citizen to vote. It is not enough if only the Government makes all effort to create awareness in this regard, citizens should also participate in this awareness drive and this is exactly what the owners of three shops on Kalidasa Road have done. They have fixed a banner in front of their adjoining shops with the messages in both English and Kannada that reads: 'Voting is our Right, Voting is our Duty, Vote without Fail.'

Speaking to SOM about this initiative, former Joint Director of Information Department K. Vijayakumar, who resides in a nearby locality, said, "Owners of the three familiar business shops located at the junction of busy Kalidasa and Adipampa Roads in V.V. Mohalla — Koshi and Vergese of Apollo Electrix, Ode Raju of Upahara Dharshini and Sridhar of Elite Men's Salon — have jointly displayed colourful banner above their shops to create awareness among people to vote without fail."

"No doubt, it is attracting the people with the messages effectively written. They have become role models in this national campaign to create awareness among voters to cast their votes. Other business establishments in the city will probably join in the drive by displaying similar slogans," he said.

Upahara Dharshini owner Ode Raju said that it is very important for every eligible voter to cast vote for the development of the country. "Many even today do not understand the importance of voting and their standard excuse is what is the point in voting or how does it benefit one. In order to remove such feelings from the minds of the people, this effort is going on. Every day hundreds of customers visit our shops and when they see the banners with messages in English and Kannada, they will be motivated to vote," he said expressing confidence in their effort.

Hung verdict will lead to Mayawati becoming Prime Minister: MLA
BSP Chief to address rally in city on Apr.10

Mysuru, Apr.8 (MTY&NNN)- BSP (Bahujan Samaj Party) will make significant inroads in the current Lok Sabha elections and the party's Chief Mayawati will become the Prime Minister of the country, predicted MLA and former Minister N. Mahesh.

He was speaking after inaugurating a preliminary party workers meeting to make arrangements for the mega BSP Rally to be held in city on Apr.10, at Anand Vihar Kalyan Mantap on Mysuru-Nilgiri Road here recently and said that just like last year's Assembly elections in the State, the Lok Sabha elections will also have a fractured verdict with no party getting a majority on its own.

"This time in Uttar Pradesh, BSP and SP (Samajawadi Party) alliance is going to change the political fortunes of the country. In the 88 seats in the State, BSP-SP combine is confident of winning 55 to 60 seats. This coalition is going to have an effect on the results of nine neighbouring States. The BJP which has won 71 seats in the last elections is going to lose 60 seats out of it. Since there is going to be a hung verdict, Mayawati is going to be elected as the PM," he said.

MLA N. Mahesh addressing BSP party workers meeting in city recently.

"BJP and Congress have ignored the exploited classes. They are making false promises of eradicating poverty and creating jobs thus misleading the youth. Hence, people should reject both the parties," he urged.

"BJP had campaigned last time showcasing Congress' 60 years misrule. Trusting that good days (Achhe Din) will come, people had voted for BJP. However, as Modi had claimed, the good days never arrived and even today the poverty has not been eradicated," he regretted.

One lakh people to participate in rally: BSP Chief Mayawati will address the mega rally on Apr.10 at Maharaja's College Grounds.

"Nearly one lakh people from all across the State will participate in the rally. A minimum of 25,000 people from Mysuru city, Chamundeshwari and Varuna constituencies are expected to gather. All arrangements must be made properly. In the same ground, PM Modi will address a rally prior to the BSP Chief. As Mayawati is going to be the future PM, the aim of the party should be to see that more people participate in the rally than the one at the PM's rally," said Mahesh calling on the part workers to work hard.

In the meeting, Mysuru-Kodgau BSP candidate Dr. B. Chandra, Mysuru District in-Charge Karate Siddaraju, Corporator Begum Pallavi, leaders Rahul, Prabhuswamy, Dr. Basavaraju, Shivamadhu, Kumar and Srinivasprasad were present.

WORD OF THE DAY

Arduous

Pronunciation: AHR-juh-wus

Meaning: Difficult and tiring, or needing a great deal of effort.
Origin: "To forgive is the most arduous pitch human nature can arrive at." When Richard Steele published that line in The Guardian in 1713, he was using arduous in what was apparently a fairly new way for English writers in his day: to imply that something was steep or lofty as well as difficult or strenuous. Steele's use is one of the earliest documented in English for that meaning, but he didn't commit it to paper until almost 150 years after the first use of the word in its "strenuous" sense. Although the "steep" sense is newer, it is still true to the word's origins; arduous derives from the Latin arduus, which means "high," "steep," or "difficult."
Examples: Every summer, right before the beginning of the new school year, the football team begins its season with "Hell Week," an arduous six days of conditioning and training."The mission has been long and the road arduous for Israeli nonprofit SpaceIL, which has, in some iteration or another, been working on the concept of a lunar lander for nearly a decade." — Chabeli Herrera, The Orlando (Florida) Sentinel, 20 Feb. 2019.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

Power dressing

Meaning: A style of dressing in which business people wear formal clothes to make them seem powerful.

Origin: This term has been used since the late 1970s and reflected the clothing styles favoured in business and politics in the US and UK throughout the 1980s. The style was heavily influenced by influential women who were in the news at the time, for example, the cast of the television shows Dynasty and Dallas, the UK Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher and the Princess of Wales. Men also had form of 'power dressing' too but this was less distinctive and innovative and often manifested itself in little more than an unusually expensive business suit. The term 'power dressing' is first recorded in the New York paper The Post-Standard, September 1979: "The accent has shifted to glamour and power dressing for the city rather than the casual look of past seasons." The style itself leaned towards a somewhat masculine shape and frequently included a tailored jacket, almost always complete with shoulder pads.

'Sangeeta Sambhrama' captivates gathering at Mysore Palace

Lakshmi Nagaraj and Indu Nagaraj performing at Mysore Palace last evening as part of 'Ugadi Sangeethotsava.'

Mysuru, Apr.8 (MK&US)- Second day of the three-day 'Ugadi Sangeethotsava,' organised by District Administration and Palace Board at Mysore Palace here last evening, featured 'Sangeeta Sambhrama,' a delightful rendition of classical film hits by Lakshmi Nagaraj and Indu Nagaraj.

They commenced the programme singing 'Vathapi Ganapathim Bhaje' followed by 'Hachhevu Kannadada Deepa', 'Barisu Kannada Dindima', 'Kurudu Kanchana Kuniyutalitto' and 'Nambide Ninna Naada Devathe'.

The rendition of 'Naadamaya e Lokavella' by Lakshmi Nagaraj and 'Aaradhisuve madanari' by Indu Nagaraj received a thunderous applause from the gathering. They later sang a few songs in Hindustani style.

On the LED screen installed on the dais, a few clippings were displayed focussing on voter awareness. ZP CEO K. Jyothi, Palace Broad Deputy Director T.S. Subramanya and others were present.

On the concluding day today (Apr.8), Sitar Maestro Vishwamohan Bhat and violinist Dr. Mysore Manjunath will present a Grand Jugalbandhi from 7 pm to 9.30 pm.
